

After many issues regarding the lack of participation concerning the required General Military Training, we will be implementing the completion of the General Military Training with the HRNROTC drill grading system.

OBJECTIVE

Increase participation and personal responsibility of personnel completion of General Military Training exercises. Implementing the General Military Training within the drill grading system, the personnel—students—of Hampton Roads NROTC Unit will become personally accountable for their success and practice for success in their upcoming career in the fleet. The grade will not deter them so much that they will fail, but reward them for their dedication to completing assigned tasks.

SCOPE OF SERVICES

1. Procedures

- a. Subcategory "General Military Training" under "3. Drill Practical Application"; accredited a value of 10 points
 - i. Listed under personnel inspection as section "b. GMTs"
- b. Uniform inspection grade will now be valued at 10 points
- c. Grade will be considered "pass or fail" all ten points or nothing, all General Military Training exercises will be turned in, on time and as per the Battalion Training Officer of that semester.
 - i. If no GMT exercises were required for the semester, everyone will receive a grade of "10"/pass
 - ii. Only exception to the "all or nothing" points will be late turn-ins, refer to section Procedures 1, d.
- d. For late turn-ins, a deduction of 2 points per GMT turned in late will be assigned
 - i. Late turn in is defined as: was not turned in on the specific due date assigned by the Training Officer of the semester, but was turned in prior to the end of the semester drill grade sheet completion
 - ii. This allows for personal accountability and timeliness, without a harsh punishment for tardiness nor the same consequences as those who failed to complete them
 - iii. 2 points will be deducted, up to 10 points, under the Section "3. Drill Practical Application; b. GMTs"

2. Training and Testing

- a. The grading instruction will be assigned beginning the Spring 2010 semester and continuing on, based on its success/failure

Very Respectfully,
