FREE
ACTIVISM BOOTCAMP
OCTOBER 28
9:30AM-3:30PM
Hampton/Newport News Room, Webb Center

YOU READ THE HEADLINES. YOU TALK TO FRIENDS AND FAMILY. NOW WHAT?
TRAINING TO PREPARE YOU TO GET INVOLVED.

Breakfast and Registration-9:30AM
Join us for a hot breakfast before the workshop begins. Registration is free and includes breakfast and lunch.

Oral History and Storytelling-10AM
Facilitators: Sara Wood and Taylor Livingston of UNC’s Southern Oral History Program. Successful activists understand the power of stories to move people to action, but before sharing those stories we must learn how to listen for and preserve them.

Participants will be trained to collect community stories in the form of oral histories.

Lunch-1PM
Join us for a power hour of lunch and activist networking.

Experiences of Activism-2PM
Facilitators: Joshunda Sanders and Soraya Membreno of Bitch Media.

Joshunda: We have all heard the saying and promise that one person can change the world, but where do you begin? With your personal narrative, which influences and intersects with a part of the American political narrative.

Soraya will draw on her experiences attending a predominantly white institution as a first-generation immigrant. Her part of the workshop will be full of all the things no college counselor will tell you. Participants will be encouraged to discuss assimilation, tokenization, fitting into a new environment while maintaining ties to home, and how being fully yourself can be an act of radical resistance.

Sponsored by: Women's Center, Women's Studies and Programs All Weekend
Activism Bootcamp Training is free, but space is limited. RSVP: HTTP://BIT.LY/ACTIVISMTTRAININGREGISTRATION

Questions? Contact: c2matthe@odu.edu