Old Dominion University Professor Samuel L. Brown Selected as a Fellow by the National Academy of Public Administration

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Old Dominion University today announced that Professor Samuel L. Brown has been selected by the National Academy of Public Administration for inclusion in its 2022 Class of Academy Fellows, in recognition of his years of public administration service and expertise.

“I am honored to join this distinguished group of Fellows at the National Academy of Public Administration. I am looking forward to working with stakeholders to address current and emerging issues by developing strategies, performing organizational assessments, strengthening collaborations, and invoking information technology to ensure social equity while serving clients at all levels of government across the United States and the world,” said Samuel L. Brown, Professor and Chair of the School of Public Service at Old Dominion University.

Brown is an award-winning educator and researcher who offers more than 20 years of experience in the teaching of Public Administration. He currently serves as professor and chair of the School of Public Service at Old Dominion University’s Strome College of Business. He earned a doctorate in public policy from the University of Maryland Baltimore County, a master’s in business administration from the University of Baltimore and a bachelor’s in economics from Towson State University.

In addition to teaching, Brown’s extensive background includes numerous publications in international journals, research and grant awards, frequent presentations at conferences worldwide and service on boards and committees. Prior to his academic career he served in positions with the private sector, as well as in state and federal government.

“I am very pleased to welcome Samuel L. Brown to the Academy’s 2022 class of Fellows. Our distinguished Academy Fellows are nationally recognized and respected for their expertise in the field of public administration and Samuel L. Brown is no exception,” said Terry Gerton, President and CEO of the Academy. “We proudly welcome this outstanding new class of Fellows that will help advance the Academy vision - a just, fair, and inclusive government that strengthens communities and protects democracy.”

Selection of the Academy’s new Fellows follows a rigorous review of the individual’s contributions to the field of public administration and policy. A Fellows Nominating Committee makes its recommendations to the full Fellowship, which then votes on those individuals to be elected. The 2022 class joins more than 950 Academy Fellows -- including former cabinet officers, members of Congress, governors, mayors and state legislators, as well as prominent scholars, business executives, and public administrators.

Induction of the new Fellows will occur during the annual Academy Fall Meeting, which will take place virtually and in-person November 2-4 at three host sites (Academy headquarters in Washington, D.C., Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, PA, and University of Connecticut in Hartford, CT), with a focus on “Strengthening Social and Economic Development Through Meaningful Work.” Registration information can be found here.

School of Public Service

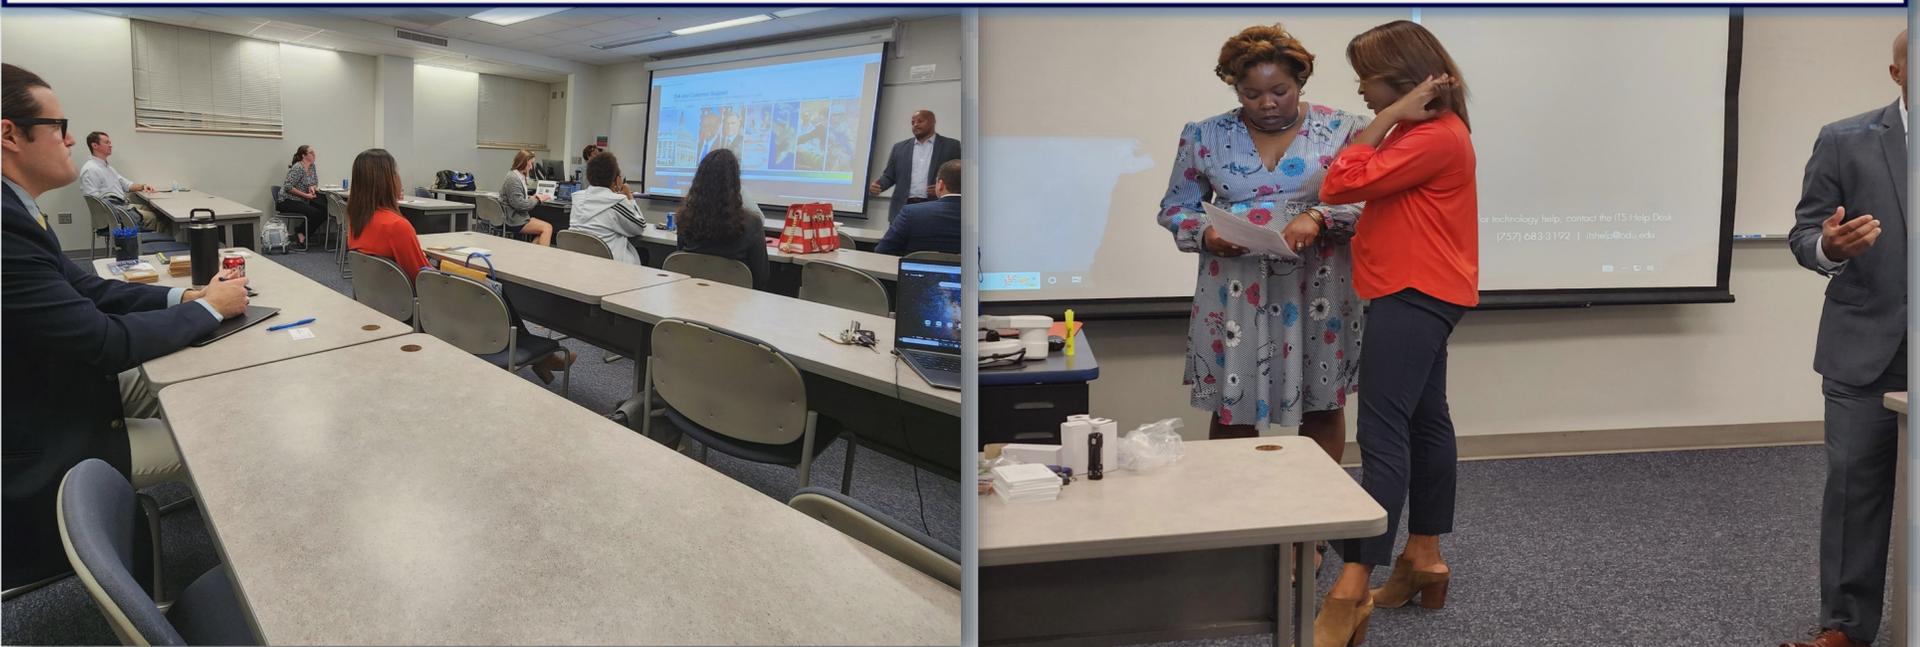

Old Dominion University, Strome College of Business, and School of Public Service (SPS) hosted a Career Networking Event with Michael Foster and Kai Mosley-Hill from the Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) on Wednesday, September 28, 2022, in Constant Hall. Students interested in procurement and acquisitions, economics, accounting, business, and public administration attended to learn more about career opportunities with the federal government.

The event, which was also live-streamed, featured a discussion surrounding career opportunities with the DIA. The DIA is a Department of Defense combat support agency. The organization produces, analyzes, and disseminates military intelligence information to combat and noncombat military missions. It serves as the Nation's primary manager and producer of foreign military intelligence and is a central intelligence producer and manager for the secretary of defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and combatant commands.

Michael Foster, CFO, FACDO, presented ODU School of Public Service's Director of the Graduate Certificate in Public Procurement and Contract Management, Dr. Joshua Steinfeld, with a DIA Challenge Coin for his work as a DIA person of contact and for fostering a positive pipeline for ODU students seeking employment with the agency. As an indicator of the success of the collaboration, Mr. Foster informed the audience that a recent ODU graduate who attended the Career Networking Event last year has completed the extensive and arduous interview and background screening process with DIA and will begin work with the agency shortly.

For those seeking more information about a career with DIA, please contact Dr. Steinfeld (jsteinfe@odu.edu) or visit their website at <https://www.dia.mil/>.

The City Manager's Office of Kansas City, Missouri Two new Fellows

We are now recruiting for two new Fellows, who will begin the two-year program in June 2023. Applicants for this Fellowship typically come from top-level Master's programs from across the country, such as your own. Our application portal will open on January 3rd and will close on Tuesday, January 31, 2023. Required application materials for the initial stage include a current resume, cover letter, all unofficial academic transcripts, and a City application.

The Cookingham-Noll Management Fellowship is one of the longest running and most well-known municipal management fellowships in the country. The program is designed to attract, develop, and retain talented individuals with an interest in a local government management career.

It offers recent graduates of Public Administration or related Master's programs a two-year experience that gives fellows a "360-degree tour of the city." This includes rotations in the City Manager's Office, the Office of Management and Budget, and other departments in which Fellows have an interest. Aside from day-to-day work opportunities, Fellows will also attend and participate in meetings with the City Manager and other City leaders. After the Fellowship concludes, successful participants are recruited by departments to fill available city jobs, and many of our top-level executives began their career in this program.

Please forward this opportunity to any of your students who might be interested in pursuing this Fellowship and to other relevant graduate degree and certificate programs within your school. If this email reached you in error, please forward this to the Career Services Director at your school.

Additional information and application instructions can be found on our website: <https://cookinghamnoll.wixsite.com/cookinghamnoll>.
