Often times a normal window on the taskbar may not be visible but the program is still running. The system tray stores icons of programs currently hidden or running in the background.

To open the System Tray:

1. Click the arrow at the bottom right of the screen.

2. You can then right click most icons for other options.