The M-Power Peer Education Network serves the student body at ODU as an educational resource on the issues of interpersonal violence to include sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking. As members of the Women’s Center’s SAFE team, peer educators engage their fellow students in programs and discussions that promote gender equality and a safe, supportive learning environment for all students. Through its presence and programs on the ODU campus, M-Power creates spaces for education, awareness, and positive social change.

What does it mean to be an M-Power Peer Educator?

As an M-Power Peer Educator, you will be required to complete mandatory training to be held on the following dates; September 19, September 26, and October 3, with each session lasting approximately 4 hours. This training will be to prepare you to present to residence halls, sororities and fraternities, athletic groups, and a variety of student organizations on topics related to healthy relationships, sexual assault and campus safety. During your time as an M-Power peer educator, you will be required to complete a minimum of 3 presentations/programs per semester. The requirements are as follows: lead a minimum of 2 M-Power Presentations, help plan at least 1 M-Power program a semester, attend at least 4 of our bi-weekly planning meetings, and attend all mandatory training sessions.

M-Power Peer Educators are very important people on a college campus. It has been proven that students will listen to your message and be able to relate to you because you are students. We will train you so that you can make these challenging topics an enlightening experience for all students at ODU. If just one student walks away with a new piece of information, an increased sense of safety and support, and/or information to help a friend, then you have done your job. You can’t save the world in one hour, but knowledge is contagious!

What will I Gain?

There are many benefits to being a peer educator. You will develop your public speaking skills, become trained in violence prevention & advocacy, interact with the student community, serve as an important resource for other students, enhance self-efficacy, and build your resume! Educators will also have the chance to help in the implementation and planning of programming on campus.
