Domestic Violence is a pattern of controlling behavior used to maintain power in a relationship by one partner over the other. While each case is unique, abusers use a range of abusive behavior to control their partners, including: physical, emotional, psychological, sexual, financial and spiritual abuse. Isolation from friends and family, using children as bargaining tools, and threatening deportation and/or using a victim’s legal status as a means to keep her in an abusive relationship are also common patterns that abusers utilize in domestic violence relationships.

Often, it is difficult to identify various forms of abuse, particularly when they are indirect or not as obvious as physical and/or sexual violence. Use this wheel below to learn about the many forms of domestic violence.
